November 2023

Give to God what belongs to God.

Dear Saints,

The world is in turmoil. Violence is the order of the day. Intensification of the war on our doorstep (Ukraine and Russia). Words like refugees "streaming" into Western Europe, citizens having war fatigue starting to be numbed by the atrocities of the war, wanting to shut ourselves to the consequences of this unbridled violence, not wanting to think of the ensuing winter months, which can only complicate and intensify people's suffering in Ukraine. To make matters worse, the war between Palestine and Israel is taking sub-human proportions of attacks and counter-attacks by Hamas and Israel. Unspeakable human suffering and a polarised world citizenship depend on the side you are on.

Taking sides in a war that dehumanises our neighbours justifies our revenge efforts. We are all onlookers, yet participants. Alliances are formed, yet none facilitate life, only death. There are also wars in other parts of the world, Mali, Nigeria, Ethiopia, Somalia, Armenia and Yemen, to mention just a few. And we are sitting here in the now, feeling powerless, knowing if we do not work toward peace today, the lose-lose situation we find ourselves in will only intensify.

Sunday's gospel reading, 22nd October, Matthew 22:15-22, is a continuation of the plot to accuse Jesus of wrongdoing by the socio-political and religious elite (Pharisees and Herodians), aimed at killing him. Politically, just about the only thing Pharisees and Herodians had in common was their dislike of Jesus. The Pharisees sent their disciples with the Herodians to engage Jesus in such a way that he could be tricked into a death trap.

So they put aside their many differences for a moment and come together to pose Jesus a question that they hope will put him between a wall of fire and a sheer drop: "Is it lawful to pay taxes to the emperor, or not?" (verse 17)

St Mary's Chapel News

Died in the services

Little Alex was staring up at the large brass plaque on the church's side wall. The plaque was covered with names and seemed to fascinate the seven-year-old. "All those names," he said to the minister. "Who are they?"

"Well, they were people who used to go to this church," explained the minister. "This is a memorial to all the young men and women who died in the services."

Soberly, they stood together, staring at the large plaque. Little Alex's voice was barely audible when he asked, "Which service, 9 or 11 o'clock?"

Sunday 5th November 2023, All Souls' Day

(Commemoration of the Faithful Departed)

On Sunday 5th November 2023 there will be a Eucharist at 10:30 in the chapel for All Souls' Day, with the Commemoration of the Faithful Departed. At this service the names of our dearly departed loved ones will be read out and candles will be lit. There is a list in church where you can write down the names of those people you would like to be mentioned in that service. You may also send the names to Simone via email.

Sunday 12th November 2023, Remembrance Sunday

The Remembrance Sunday service will be at 10:30 on Sunday 12th November 2023. The preacher will be Lay Minister Simone Yallop. Poppies are available in the Hut.

Prayer for the charities that we support.

Please continue to prayer for the charities we support: "Our Daily Bread" working in Ukraine, "Young Achievers" working with young people in Namibia, and the food bank in Goor.

Our Daily Bread

The "Our Daily Bread" charity working in Ukraine has a request this week to pray for the young people in the city of Sumy in Ukraine:

"There is now an active youth group at our partner's church in Sumy. This is our Launchpad project. Unfortunately, some young people have difficulty attending the group. That is because their parents use physical and psychological violence against them in an effort to stop them from going."

Extra General Meeting (EGM) for the election of new wardens

There will be an Extra General Meeting after the service on 5th November for the election of new wardens. A nominations list is on the notice board in the Hut. For anyone standing for election as warden there needs to be a signature from the person making the nomination and a signature from the person seconding the nomination. There also needs to be a signature from the person being nominated to say that they accept the nomination. At the meeting on 5th November the Archdeacon will be present to admit the new wardens.

Prayer for November 2023

Father God,

November is not many people's favourite month, unless there is a birthday or a delight in bonfires. Short days, sometimes dismal weather can lower our mood. The days of springtime optimism and summer sunshine seem a long way away, whether we look back or forward.

Help us Lord, whatever the month, whatever our circumstances, whatever our mood, to know the reality of Your presence and peace; to treasure each new day and know it is transformed by You into the most precious and beautiful gift. Help us not to waste a single one of them, Lord. Thank You so much for November days.

In Jesus' name, Amen.

By Rev. Daphne Kitching

Magazine Payments

St. Mary's Magazine plays a valuable role in helping to keep the congregation informed on what is going on in their church and the chapel community. If you wish to receive a printed copy of the magazine, issued ten times a year, an annual donation of €15 will help to cover printing costs. If you cannot pick up your copy in the chapel and want to have it posted to you, we need to ask for an additional donation of €20 to cover postage.

Payments Due

With the start of the new year the call has to go out again for those people who receive a paper copy, to make their annual donation. During 2020, Lub Gringhuis took over the job of arranging the printing. With some skilful home printing and costing the magazine for the covered its costs. With Lub's skilled management and your prompt donations, the magazine will survive.

Intercessions

If you wish to have someone included in the intercessions, or who is in need of a pastoral visit, please contact one of the Churchwardens or the Chaplain, before the Service. Alternatively, if you want to have someone included in the intercessions you could contact the Intercessor via the Prayer Request Tool on the Chapel Website. The Chaplain, the Wardens and the Intercessor will simultaneously receive your message via this tool. The link below will take you directly to the Prayer Request.

One day, his wife found him in the living room, attacking the vacuum cleaner with a screwdriver. "I can't get this thing to cooperate!" he exclaimed.

His wife replied, "Why don't you just drag it out to the garage and show it what happened to the lawnmower?"

Did Noah fish?

A Sunday school teacher asked, "Johnny, do you think Noah did a lot of fishing when he was on the Ark?"

"No," replied Johnny. "How could he, with just two worms?"

Answered prayer

During the minister's prayer one Sunday, there was a loud whistle from one of the back pews.

Tommy's mother was horrified. She shook him into silence and, after church, asked, Tommy, whatever made you do such a thing?"

Tommy answered soberly, "I asked God to teach me to whistle, and He did!"

St James the Least of All

On using Glebe land for allotments

The Rectory
St James the Least of All

My dear Nephew Darren

I hear you have joined the committee which wants to convert the waste land between the abandoned soap factory and canal in your parish into allotments - although I would have thought there were holier sorts of conversions you could have concentrated on. I am sure you will soon be caught up in arguments which make that little disagreement over an apple in the Garden of Eden seem quite trivial.

Some years ago, we similarly decided to let part of our Glebe land become allotments; the outcome was not wholly as may have been anticipated. Colonel Wainwright saw it as an opportunity of re-living his War years and was only just restrained from digging trenches around his plot; no doubt he would have offered to play football with neighbouring allotment holders on Christmas Day.

It caused some surprise when the Earl of Stowe applied for a plot, but it has become something of an attraction to see his daily procession, preceded by his gardener pushing the wheelbarrow, the under-gardener carrying the tools and following him, his butler with the newspaper, a deckchair, and a flask of coffee. He then settles down for a comfortable hour while occasionally supervising the work, once reports on the local hunt have been read.

Miss Simpson managed to unite everyone in communal outrage by using her plot to encourage fluffy bunnies, darling foxes, and sweet squirrels. She seemed to be particularly grateful to everyone else for providing fruit and vegetables for their happiness. Resolution was only achieved when she was convinced to grow potatoes, helping the Colonel in his War Effort. Fortunately, he did not ask her to arrive equipped with the regulation gas mask.

Our local architect seems to spend most of his time beautifying his garden shed, rather than growing produce. With its gothic arched windows, Norman tower and flying buttresses, I do wonder if he may have spent rather too much of his time renovating ancient churches.

Neighbouring plot-holders look forward to the agricultural equivalent of the Dissolution of the Monasteries.

I am sure you will find you have committed yourself to many hours of unnecessary work. Just make sure you get a percentage of their produce for your Harvest Festival.

Your loving uncle, Eustace

Note

Glebe Lands In ecclesiastical law, an area of land within a parish used to support a parish priest. It may be either agricultural land or commercial property. In the Church of England glebe lands and the proceeds therefrom are now administered by the Diocesan Boards of Finance under the Endowments and Glebe Measure 1976.

My Greenhouse.

When people want to know where I live, I always add to my directions: "You can't miss it. It's the house that is totally green." And indeed, my house is green, from top to bottom, at least in the summer. In autumn, the green turns to red and yellow. For yes, my house is covered with climbing plants and the front with a vine. In the autumn, the vine changes its green into yellow and red: a feast for the eyes.

Another phenomenon in the spring: the nearly invisible green blossoms attract many insects. Many people come to my door and warn me of the dangerous insects. And every time, I tell them that I enjoy the buzzing sound and that the insects have better things to do than attack me with a sting. To me, it is a yearly feast to hear and see the insects. However, this past spring, the buzzing was significantly less than it was in the years before.

People also warn me about the damage a vine can do to your house. And then I laugh. Because my house has gotten an extra way of insulation. In the summer, my house is remarkably cool; in the winter, bare branches and evergreen climbers add to the pleasant temperature inside.

There is only one climber I don't want to cover my house: it is the ivy. Where the other plants and the vine leave some black spots from the suction cups on the walls, the ivy squeezes itself between the stones and tries to push them apart. That's why ivy is so fond of ruins.

A lady was advertising for a travelling companion and ended with these words: 'Christian wanted, cheerful if possible.'

The problem for Jesus, of course, is that the questioners ask a question which they think allows only a yes-or-no answer. Their purpose in doing so is to limit Jesus' options so that he has no choice but to answer in a way that will compromise him. If Jesus answers that the taxes are lawful, he will alienate those who hate the tax and the coin. If he answers that the taxes are not lawful, the Romans will arrest him for sedition. Either way, Jesus loses, and his "enemies" win.

Jesus, who always goes to the heart of the matter, answers the question with another question. His question reframes the issue subtly by asking to see the coin used to pay the tax.

"Show me the coin used for the tax." And they brought him a denarius. Then he asked them, "Whose image is this and whose title?" They answered, "Caesar's." Then he said to them, "Give therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

The biblical understanding of humans, male and female, is that we are God's image bearers. What is the inscription on us? Lover of God and lover of neighbour as we are lovers of ourselves?

So what good news lays within God's words to us in this scripture in our present confusing day, where we live in a world which expects us to choose the side of those from dominant cultures? We do not have to be between a rock and a hard place because our choice is to have relationships and make choices that give God what is God's. All of us are made in God's image! Our choices, therefore, should reflect this.

Our Emperor said: "Let us make humankind in our image, according to our likeness." We must never forget to render unto God the things that are God's.

Yours in Christ as always,

Revd Jacque Williams

Statement from the Church Council of the Anglican Church Twente
regarding the resignation of the Churchwardens.

October 2023

- Council deeply regrets the decision by the current wardens to resign as from 1 November.
- We understand that in the past there have been differences in management approach and communication style between the wardens and the chaplain, which have led to the decision to resign.
- Council sincerely appreciates the deep commitment and efforts made by the wardens over the past years. Their contribution to the functioning of our church has been of great importance.
- We wish to ensure the good functioning of St. Mary's, also into the future. To this end an Extra General Meeting will be held on 5 November to elect new wardens.
- Council greatly values the enthusiastic leadership and liturgical guidance provided by the chaplain. We wish to ensure that the chaplain can continue her essential work as priest at St. Mary's.
- In order to ensure that in the future wardens and chaplains can smoothly work together, Council proposes to set up a review mechanism that will allow wardens and chaplains to voice any concerns, in confidence, at an early stage. Those involved from the Council in this mechanism will report to the full Council about their findings, respecting always the confidentiality in which any concerns may have been raised.
- Council recognizes that this is a time for healing, prayer, and a search for reconciliation. It will do its utmost to make this possible.
- Council wishes our church to move forward as a vibrant, inclusive, diverse and inspiring community, where all are welcome.

Conscious living and no waste

We are slowly learning not to waste a lot of things in our daily lives. What kind of things do we waste? What goes in the containers that the municipality collects? To name a few products: textiles, appliances, and, not to forget, food.

About the last, it is necessary to say the following: Every year, about 30 kilos of food per person is still thrown away in the Netherlands (we are not the biggest throwaways in the world). This food all ends up in the green container, so it is not eaten. WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT IT!

Here are some valuable tips:

*Buy no more food in the supermarket than you need until your next shopping day. Nowadays, you find a refrigerator in most supermarkets, where food that is exactly on the date and discounted is presented. (I discovered that it often can be kept for two more days.) So it is economical and still okay to eat.

* While preparing the meal, remember that you don't cook too much .... So you are not getting too many leftovers. But if you have leftovers, use them in the following day's meals, such as soup or a salad. Crusts of bread are perfect for making tosti's. And the birds like them too, but be careful not to throw them on the ground because they attract rats, but put them in a birdhouse or on a shelf attached to a single pole.

And, of course, if you have a freezer, lots of food can be stored in them. When my children were little, I used to save the leftovers for three or four days and bake or grill each with other ingredients like fried onions, fried mushrooms or cheese. And they were eating with great pleasure the little heaps on their plate, curious to discover the new taste.

The Netherlands restaurants together throw about 55 million kilo's of good food yearly! Not to imagine! Doggy bags are relatively unknown in the Netherlands.

Do you always empty your plate in a restaurant? If you do, it is a compliment to the restaurant owner and... nothing from your plate will end up in the waste-container. A win-win situation!

The Poppies of Remembrance

In late 1914, WW1 erupted across Northern France and Flanders. Great swathes of previously green fields and forests were blasted and bombed, leaving them bleak and barren, with seemingly every living thing destroyed.

But then in the Spring of 1915, something beautiful began to come out of all the destruction. Tens of thousands of bright red Flanders poppies began to put out tentative shoots across the endless vistas of mud. These resilient little flowers had actually flourished in the middle of so much chaos and destruction, because their seeds grow when exposed to sunlight, through disturbances to soil.

We all know that these endless fields of cheerful poppies, growing in the midst of such misery and destruction, were what inspired the Canadian doctor, Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, to write the now famous poem 'In Flanders Fields'.

And it was McCrae's poem which inspired an American academic named Moina Michael to adopt the poppy in memory of those who had fallen in the war. She got it adopted as an official symbol of Remembrance across the United States, and worked with others who were trying to do the same in Canada, Australia, and the UK.

A French woman, Anna Guérin who was in the UK in 1921, caught the same vision, and planned to sell the poppies in London. There she met Earl Haig, the founder of the Royal British Legion, who was persuaded to adopt the poppy as its emblem in the UK.

The Royal British Legion, which had been formed in 1921, ordered nine million poppies and sold them on 11 November that year. Ever since then, the red poppy has been a symbol of Remembrance, of support for the Armed Forces community, and also of hope for a peaceful future.

And I'm left to drink myself to death and on a cold street die.*

*I march on your decision, anywhere in this wide world
In places where our flag had no right to be unfurled,
And I'm not asking for riches, I want nothing for free
The only thing I'm asking for,
Is a measure of dignity.*

*For I am the eternal soldier; I'm there when you need me
Fighting for your conscience down every century
And I'm standing on the front-line, bleeding for your cause
Just a name on a memorial, at which you never pause.*

Donations and Bequests

The policy of the Anglican Church Twente is to use donations and bequests to help fund significant development projects in the Chaplaincy, whether buildings, equipment, staff, or other major needs. As circumstances change over the years, it may not be possible to fulfil specific donor requests, so church members are encouraged to make donations and leave legacies for the general purposes of the Chaplaincy. The Chaplaincy Council will discuss with donors or their executors the most appropriate use of the gift in the light of current projects and the donor's known areas of interest in the church: for example, children & youth, music, buildings.

Donations or bequests can be paid into the current account of the Anglican Church Twente, ABN AMRO Lochem, IBAN: NL62ABNA0593634012.

A Prayer for St Mary's

*Almighty and everlasting God
Creator and ruler of all things in heaven and earth,
Hear our prayer for the St Mary's family.
Strengthen our faith,
Fashion our lives according to the example of your Son,
And grant that we may show the power of your love,
To all among whom we live.
Inspire us in our worship and witness,
Grant us all things necessary for our common life,
And bring us all to be of one heart and mind
Within your Holy Church
Through Jesus Christ our Lord,
Who lives and reigns with you in the Holy Spirit
One God, now and forever,
Amen.*
